

NATURE - THE ALARM CLOCK

Each and every morning,
That bird is in our tree.
Happily, singing its song,
It's there to waken me.

The alarm clock, we need not set,
For this bird is always on time.
No matter what the weather,
Rain or sweet sunshine.

Before the sun rises, wooo-woop,wooo-woop,
The sound, it does make.
Wooo-woop, wooo-woop,wooo-woop,
The sound, makes my head ache.

For weeks on end,
I tried, to move that bloody bird on,
Wishing it had another tree,
To sing that morning song.

I tried, EVERYTHING,
THAT bird is here to stay.
Its morning Wooo-woop,
Starting each and every new day.
